Searching For WLRC Theses in Catalyst, the JHU Libraries Catalog

1. Go to: Catalyst – [The name of the library catalog] http://catalog.library.jhu.edu

2. Type words in the subject field dissertations and essays communication > Search

3. Notice the location, Washington Library Resource Center. Visit the WLRC stacks to locate and view the thesis of your choice. We can lend a circulating copy to JHU online students. Please contact us at washrocklibraries@jhu.edu for more information.

4. If you would like to borrow a thesis, bring it and your JCard to the WLRC service desk for check out.

Dissertations and Theses, an electronic resource to which the library subscribes, includes thousands of full-text dissertations from universities throughout the world. The library also subscribes to Dissertations of China and the Database of Swiss Theses and Dissertations on Sub-Saharan Africa.

To access these subscription resources, on-campus or off-site:

- Click on the ‘By Subject’ link beneath the bold ‘Online Resources’ heading (not tab) near the center of the page.
- Once the alphabetical list appears, click on the first letter of the first word in the name of the database you are seeking. For example, click on ‘D’ for “Dissertations and Theses.”
- Next, click on the name of the database.

Questions? call 202-452-0714 or email washarocklibraries@jhu.edu

Rev. 9/11